HENRIKE NAUMANN born 1984 in Zwickau (GDR), lives and works in Berlin

Henrike Naumann reflects socio-political problems on the level of interior design and domestic space and explores antagonistic political beliefs through the ambivalent aesthetics of personal taste. In her immersive installations she arranges furniture and home decor into scenographic spaces interspersed with video and sound work. Growing up in Eastern Germany, Naumann experienced extreme-right ideology as a predominant youth culture in the '90s. Therefore, she is interested in the mechanisms of radicalization and how they are linked to personal experience. Although rooted in her experiences in Germany, Naumann's work has addressed the global connectivity of youth cultures and their role in the process of cultural othering.

Lecture will be held in English.
